Period for Reply

A SHORTENED STATUTORY PERIOD FOR REPLY IS SET TO EXPIRE 3 MONTH(S) OR THIRTY (30) DAYS, WHICHEVER IS LONGER, FROM THE MAILING DATE OF THIS COMMUNICATION.

- Extensions of time may be available under the provisions of 37 CFR 1.136(a). In no event, however, may a reply be timely filed after SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- If NO period for reply is specified above, the maximum statutory period will apply and will expire SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- Failure to reply within the set or extended period for reply will, by statute, cause the application to become ABANDONED (35 U.S.C. § 133). Any reply received by the Office later than three months after the mailing date of this communication, even if timely filed, may reduce any earned patent term adjustment. See 37 CFR 1.704(b).

Status

- 1) ☐ Responsive to communication(s) filed on ____.
- 2a) ☐ This action is FINAL. 2b) ☒ This action is non-final.
- 3) ☐ Since this application is in condition for allowance except for formal matters, prosecution as to the merits is closed in accordance with the practice under Ex parte Quayle, 1935 C.D. 11, 453 O.G. 213.

Disposition of Claims

DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

Claims 2-3 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the enablement requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to enable one skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and/or use the invention. The specification does not describe in such a way to enable one skilled in the art to use magnets to pull the band against the belt.

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 1-4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

In regards to claim 1, the recitation “especially of extremely thin bands” renders that claims indefinite.

In further regards to claim 1, the recitation “for a while” renders the claims indefinite.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

Art Unit: 3654

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1 and 4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Mohrsen et al (US 6,387,220).

Mohrsen discloses a device for transferring or threading beginnings of thin bands, from a band machining or band processing unit 10, to a, or into a, further processing unit or winding reel 14, consisting of a transfer table 18 whose width corresponds at least to the width of the band to be conveyed, and whose table surface has a lengthwise slot (Fig. 1) in the conveying direction of the band, which is narrower than the minimum width of a band to be conveyed, by means of which the upper run of a conveyor belt (18) running in the conveying direction of the band can be pivoted 18a over the surface of the transfer table and to which the band to be conveyed can be connected by external force.

In regards to claim 4, Mohrsen discloses suction nozzles, which pull the band against the belt.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-3 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Weigl (3,765,757) in view of Kock et al. (US DE 4018950).

Weigl discloses a device for transferring or threading beginnings of thin bands, from a band machining or band processing unit, to a, or into a, further processing unit or winding reel, consisting of a transfer table whose width corresponds at least to the width of the band to be conveyed, and whose table surface has a lengthwise slot (Fig. 4) in the conveying direction of the band, which is narrower than the minimum width of a band to be conveyed, by means of which the upper run of a conveyor belt (84) running in the conveying direction of the band and to which the band to be conveyed can be connected by external force.

Kock et al teaches means of which the upper run of a guiding assembly 2,6 can be pivoted 3 over the surface of the transfer table and to which the band can be connected by external force.

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify the transport arrangement of Weigl to include a means to pivot the conveyor belt as suggested by Kock, to avoid manual intervention.

In regards to claims 2 and 3, Weigl as modified by Kock teaches which the band to be conveyed against the top surface are arranged under the conveyer belt (Weigl).

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
